5 May 2024: Easter 6

God our redeemer, you have delivered us from the power of darkness and brought us into the kingdom of your Son: grant, that as by his death he has recalled us to life, so by his continual presence in us he may raise us to eternal joy through Jesus Christ your Son our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and forever.

On this Sunday before Ascension, at the beginning of Christian Aid week, all our readings ask us to consider God's love. Jesus tells his followers that while they abide in his love, which is the infinite, self-giving love between the three Persons of the Trinity, they abide in him, and he, through the Spirit, is in them. We are not left as orphans, looking up to heaven sad-eyed with drooping mouths.

God's love is free, full, powerful, and gentle. Jesus invites us to see all of our relationships transformed in the image of that love; a love in which no one is anonymous or dispensable, no one is cast aside as irredeemable, and everyone exercises the kind of relaxed and joyful generosity that happens when nobody is keeping score. That's why the believers in Acts share with fellow Christians on the other side of the world as freely as they'd share with their own family. Jesus's 'farewell discourse' from John's gospel, from which our gospel this week is taken, tells the disciples over and over again, 'abide in my love'. God's love is our native element; it's what we were made for.
